

A most unusual photograph, showing George V of England, Queen Alexandra, the Prince of Wales, President Poincare, Mme. Poincare, Sir Douglas Haig, the British commander and another English officer.

Underwood & Underwood.

Left: Society thronged to this wedding. Miss Jeanne F. Marston becomes the bride of Robert J. Adams. After the ceremony, which took place in the sunken garden on the estate of the bride's father, at Port Chester, N. Y., the guests, including many army officers, enjoyed dancing on the lawn.

International Film.

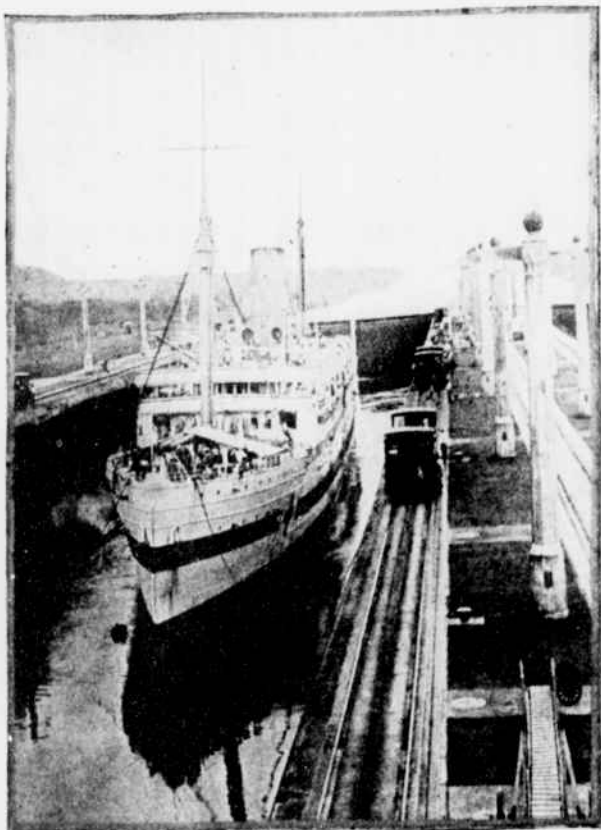

The Belgian War Mission stands at attention on the City Hall steps while the band plays "The Star-Spangled Banner." On Mayor Mitchel's right is Baron Moncheur, head of the Mission. On the Baron's right is F. R. Coudert, Chairman of the Reception Committee, and directly behind the Mayor is General LeClerq of the Belgian Army. Members of the American Junior Naval and Marine Scouts flank the distinguished visitors on either side.

Paul Thompson.

On the left—Augustus Thomas, the popular playwright, tells a few things to John Philip Sousa, the March King, now a Lieutenant in the Navy.

John Sousa.

Severely wounded Australians on a British hospital ship pass through the Panama Canal on their way home.

Underwood & Underwood.

Not a jungle scene, but a war dance behind the British lines in France by the South African Labor Corps.

Brown & Dawson.

Many tennis stars are now officers in the new army. Lieutenant Peck Griffin, of Colorado, and Dean Mathey photographed in uniform at the Red Cross tournament at Forest Hills.

Rosenfeld.

Mr. Lloyd George (on the left) addressing a great meeting at Queen's Hall, London. On Mr. George's left is Lady Crewe, the Archbishop of Canterbury and M. Pashitch, Serbian Prime Minister. To the right is Lord Crewe, next to whom is Baron Sonnino, Italian Foreign Minister.

Central News.

Above, to the right: The internationalist, Karl H. Behr, leaves the ground a second to return a volley in his first match at the Forest Hills Red Cross tournament last Monday. He was defeated by C. S. Garland in straight sets.

Levick.

Harold Throckmorton, the sensational youngster, reaches for a high one while winning his first match at the Forest Hills Red Cross tournament.

Levick.

